Colchester, CT. – Grey Wolf Consulting is very pleased to announce that a new dedicated training area specifically designed for use within our State of Connecticut Pistol Permit Certification Course has been set-up and established at our Connecticut Training Area (CTA).

Utilizing a specially designed and engineered bullet trap, this new training area will permit us to greatly expand our training as it will allow for concurrent training programs to run. Additionally, we are currently in the process of acquiring an enclosure which will provide the ability of our basic training students to train within virtually any weather conditions with increased comfort.

Grey Wolf continues to provide off-site training services to our clients and students in at other facilities as needed. For additional information about this new portable classroom, please contact the Training Division.
